Dear IBM Client,

Despite several high-profile attacks conducted by suspected state-sponsored groups using advanced methods, IBM X-Force® believes off-the-shelf tools and techniques used against a broad target base were responsible for the bulk of 2012's security incidents. They attribute this to the wide availability of toolkits and the large number of vulnerable Internet applications. IBM Security also predicts that mobile computing devices should be more secure than traditional computing devices by 2014.

We invite you to join world renowned experts from IBM X-Force® and IBM Security Systems at the Atlanta History Center, Tuesday, May 21st. During this half day event, we will dive into the findings of our latest Trend and Risk report, explore options to protect against threats, and demonstrate the latest online security solutions and strategies.

Register now for this opportunity to hear the latest insights and learn how to protect and safeguard your organization with IBM's end-to-end security capabilities. You will gain insight including information on how to address new threats presented by mobile devices, Cloud Computing, social media and more.

Date: Tuesday, May 21st

Location: Atlanta History Center
