Protect your software investment and gain a competitive advantage with IBM Software Subscription and Support.

While today's businesses must manage their expenses, they are also challenged by the need to invest in technology that will deliver the greatest possible value. To meet this challenge, these businesses turn to IBM for help.

IBM focuses on providing clients technology that delivers a competitive advantage and adds value. Every year IBM spends about USD $6 billion on research and development that is used in building new software, new versions and making updates. The result is IBM's clients gain capabilities that deliver greater benefits — ones that keep them miles ahead of their competitors.
